Carl Wais

It is a pleasure to provide this letter on behalf of Carl Wais who has worked for me for approximately 6 years.

He is a hard working, neat and organized person who cares about his work.

He shows a curiosity to learn that made him essential for many of the functions in my office. In fact, I found that quality most refreshing.

He brought his skill at organization to the legal files he worked on. He is particularly good at knowing and implementing the steps in several different legal procedures. In my practice he was noticeably helpful commencing, serving and other steps relating to Applications in the Superior Court. He was also familiar with other court levels. At various stages he was able to step in, learn and provide valuable service for Applications for Certificates of Appointment of Estate Trustees. Carl has had experience in other areas of law as well.

Carl also took pride in learning the office software programs that were essential to being a productive contributor in the office. He has considerable experience with the file opening and billing modules in PC law. He is very skilled at Microsoft word and Amicus Attorney as well, to name a few. He can be very attentive to details.

During the time that I worked with Carl, he never turned down an opportunity to learn something new. He took continuing education programs in the legal field that our office paid for. He also undertook education programs to make himself a better worker that he himself paid for.

Carl disciplines himself to work hard. He is punctual. He likes deadlines. He is strong willed and determined to succeed at the task he undertakes. He works best when he is given specific tasks and when he gets daily and regular feedback. In particular Carl will excel if he works in an environment that is "task list based" and in close communication with his direct employer. In those circumstances and within that job description it is hard to imagine anyone doing better than Carl.

I will be happy to provide further information concerning Carl.

We wish Carl the best in his career.

Sincerely

Murray McEniry
